Bar Experience

Year of Call 2000

Tutor at Edinburgh University School of Law 2000 – 2004

Standing Junior to Scottish Government 2005 – 2008

Areas of Interest

Employment and Equality law; Partnership & Boardroom Disputes

Previous Employment

Trained and qualified as a Scottish solicitor with Burness in Edinburgh;

Litigation and General Partner in that firm 1978 – 1989;

Sloan Fellowship at London Business School 1989/90;

Managing Partner at Burness 1990 – 1995;

Managing Director of regional newspaper group 1995 – 2000;

Called to Bar summer 2000.

Primarily engaged since call, and as a solicitor, in employment and equality litigation, and litigation for SME's (contract, boardroom disputes)

Alasdair has many years experience in employment law. He is instructed almost exclusively in employment or discrimination related matters, including trades disputes, and contract matters.

"Noted for his strong business background and his commercially astute advice. He has worked on unfair dismissals, discrimination, contractual and trade disputes in addition to casework relating to zero hour contracts. He has a good style of advocacy and is clever at whittling down the main points."

"I find him good to work with, as he's very informative and approachable." "He knows his stuff, he's sensible, and he'll conduct a hearing intelligently."

He is consistently ranked as leading counsel in the employment field by Chambers Directory.
