

Year of call 2022

Telephone 0131 226 5071

Email david.james@themis-advocates.co.uk

Areas of Practice

Employment, Negligence, Public Law and Human Rights and Immigration

Profile

David called to the Bar in 2022 after training and working with a leading litigation organisation in the public sector. As a solicitor, he worked primarily in Employment Law, and has appeared in Employment Tribunals across Scotland. He represented public bodies in all types of employment and discrimination cases, winning cases for his clients in multi week evidential hearings. He has particular experience and interest in discrimination cases. David has also worked in medical negligence, and in the course of his employment work he often dealt with medical issues due to the nature of his clients and the services they provided to the public. He has substantial experience in medical negligence cases, and is able to navigate factually and legally complex matters and provide clear, practical advice. David built on his experience of public sector issues and public law during his devilling period, devilling primarily to a public law specialist, and strengthening his expertise in public law, human rights and immigration matters. David is knowledgeable and practiced in all elements of judicial review work.

Qualifications

LLB (Hons) Scots Law, First Class, University of Glasgow

LLM, Globalisation and Law (Human Rights Specialisation), Distinction, Maastricht University

DipPLP, University of Edinburgh

Appointments

Junior Standing Junior to the Office of the Advocate General